Experience

Melanie practices in family law, covering all areas of law in respect of children. Melanie represents parents and children in complex cases dealing with sexual abuse, non-accidental injuries, serious neglect and parents suffering with addictions. Melanie has extensive experience in private law matters particularly when there are allegations of domestic abuse.

Melanie has a friendly empathetic approach with clients. Those facing court proceedings are often bewildered, frightened and vulnerable. Melanie believes in taking time to explain each stage of the proceedings and what is expected.

Solicitors have praised Melanie's ability to represent clients with learning difficulties and mental health issues. Melanie conducts seminars and training sessions for members of the legal profession and students. She is a registered pupil Supervisor Trained Mediator, and undertakes Direct Access Work. Melanie is a volunteer at the Legal Advice Centre University of Greenwich. Peer reviewer for research 'The Right Direction? Family Court response to domestic violence in child arrangements cases.
